<Confirmation of Limit of applying to up to 6 early admissions universities>

① Applying 6 times refers to an applicant submitting 6 applications. Regardless of the number of universities applied to, it applies to all tracks applied for during the early admissions period. Even when applying to multiple tracks at the same university, each is counted as applying to a separate track.

④ In the case of applicants who have completed their entire education abroad, those who are admitted to a university for the March admission semester based on the same academic year cannot apply for the September admission semester recruitment.
